These two photos are of the new filter. Note that the colour of the paper element.

Don't make the mistake I did and brought a new filter thinking mine was dirty, only to find a new one was exactly the same!

The pollen filter is behind the lower glove box.

Squeeze the supports (top and bottom together) on both sides of the glove box to remove it.

The filter housing is at the top above the fan unit.

The filter can now be replaced. Take note of the orientation and make sure you insert the new one the correct way around.

Replacing the front cover can be a little tricky.
